The scene: inside the restroom where Jade has gone to collect herself. Q: UI not updating after setting DialogFragment theme to Theme.HoloLight This is a very simple example of a DialogFragment I am creating that uses a custom layout. I want the custom layout to use the colors of the HoloLight theme, so I'm set the DialogFragment theme to Theme.HoloLight. public class SettingsFragment extends DialogFragment { @Override public void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState); setContentView(R.layout.dialog_fragment); } } The only reason I use setContentView(...) is to override the rest of the theme with my own styles. I tried simply using setContentView(R.layout.dialog_fragment); but that just applied the Holo dark theme, not the Holo light theme. When the dialog opens, everything is fine. But then, when the user clicks the "OK" or "Cancel" buttons, the UI notifies me that the dialog has closed, but all the settings are still in place. I must have missed something. Any idea what I'm doing wrong? How can I fix this? A: I finally figured out that my issue was the following line: setContentView(R.layout.dialog_fragment); DialogFragment.STYLE_NORMAL is defined as: public static final int STYLE_NORMAL = 0x13; which is a value that is determined by the DialogFrag
